Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 1-42 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance.

Claims 1-42 claimed a system and method for manipulating network objects by extending an Internet authoring, collaboration and versioning protocol is documented by the cited prior arts. The cited prior arts (Meyer, Dillingham and Dee) teach or disclose the system and method of controlling, managing and authoring of accessing the data resources by using remote accessing program to use the agent on each computer.

However, the instant invention has some particular combination limitations that are different and distinct from cited prior arts. Among the differences between claimed invention and the prior arts of record, the major difference is the combination of both a network administration portfolio with the WebDAV protocol for extending the WebDAV protocol to a network directory service having network administration functions for manipulating network objects by using the Internet authoring, collaboration and versioning protocol for request a manipulation of a first network object; verifying a first set of authorization information; translating a logical object address to a physical file system path; checking a file system for validity and authorization including determining whether the first network object is a network object within the network directory service; accessing the network administration functions of the network directory service using the Internet authoring, collaboration and versioning protocol and administering user rights to the first network object using the Internet authoring, collaboration and versioning protocol related to the network directory service wherein the administration of the use right is allowed without requiring client software on a user workstation is novel thus the invention is patentable.

3. Moreover, examiner has found the applicant's argument filed on January 21, 2005 is persuasive.

4. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
